Shakes Loose Iron Control of Curia

By EDOARDO MAGRI
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI today shook loose four centuries of iron control by the Roman Curia in governing the Roman Catholic Church by reducing Curia terms from lifetime to five years and revamping the Curia from top to bottom.

The changes were outlined in a 15,000-word document entitled "De Romana Curia"—on the Roman Curia.

The document—long advocated by Church progressives and bitterly opposed by conservatives—was four years in the making. It took longer to produce than any other document in Pope Paul's reign.

It is part of a continuing process in reforming the traditionally conservative and Italian-dominated Curia. The reform was recommended by the Ecu-

Public Housing Proves Slow and Costly

By JACK MILLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal housing official says President Johnson ordered greater use of private enterprise in building and running low-income housing because purely public projects have proven too slow, too costly and too stigmatized.

Don Hummel, assistant secretary for renewal and housing of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said in an interview: "Historically, private enterprise is the only way we get jobs done."

President Johnson ordered HUD Secretary Robert C. Weaver Thursday to begin immediately a pilot project recommended by the President's Committee on Urban Housing.

HUD already is experimenting with the program under which private firms build low-income housing and then sell it to local housing authorities.

But the committee, headed by Edgar F. Kaiser of Kaiser Industries, added the feature that private enterprise also would manage the low-income housing—at a profit.

Hummel said there is a growing public awareness of what he called an urgent need to replace or upgrade the vast amount of substandard housing in the nation, especially in city slums.

Recent riots have contributed to this realization, said Hummel, adding: "Lack of adequate housing was one of the major contributing factors named as a source of trouble."

The nation had about nine million substandard dwelling units in 1960, according to government statistics. No more recent figures are available. Here are the reasons Hummel and other HUD officials cite in explaining why private enterprise is now considered superior to government in providing low-income housing:

Speed—Local public authorities have to go through lengthy would help, it hasn't materialized.

He said it wouldn't be possible to get a clear idea of the results of the exchanges' actions until after Friday, which has been declared an open date for settlement of stock certificate transfers.

This means that no settlements will have to be made until Monday, giving brokers a clear day for other work. Other clear settlement dates will be Aug. 25 and 29. Another big brokerage firm, Paine, Webber, Curtis & Jackson, said it had found "some relief" from the lower volume. It added that the full impact won't be felt "until we reached the settlement dates."

Carmin Saccardi, division director of operations for Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, the biggest of all brokerage houses, said the shorter hours "seem to primarily assist in areas of processing a trade by helping us complete our day's work."

A spokesman for Bache & Co. said: "The additional working time hasn't been the answer but the drying up of volume has helped."

He said that Bache, which he described as in reasonably good shape as far as paperwork is concerned, has consistently favored retaining the regular trading hours.

None of the brokers expressed a desire for continuation of the shortened hours beyond this week and the New York Stock Exchange said it would resume regular hours next Monday.

public hearings and land condemnation proceedings before a project can be built. It takes three to four years to get a project in operation.

Private developers often have land available—or can get it quickly—and can build with little delay.

Traditional projects also require elaborate government surveillance of construction at each step. This costs the builder time as well as money.

Costs—Because of government red tape in construction, few contractors regularly do business with housing authorities.

Under the new approach the builder would negotiate a fixed price in advance, construct the project without government supervision and then sell it to the housing authority. It's believed this would bring more contractors into the field and the added competition would lower prices.

Management of projects by private firms also would provide new profit incentives. Private management would be allowed a fixed sum and could make more profit through greater efficiency.

Stigma—Public housing projects have been stigmatized because they are obvious homes of the poor. Because of public pressures, the projects usually are located in the worst residential areas.

Private developers can get sites throughout a community and this makes the projects less identifiable. HUD also has provided new means whereby residents do not have to move out when they reach a certain income level. Residents can stay simply by paying the full cost of their housing. And some now are being allowed to buy the units in which they live.

Winter Now Big Threat to Fairbanks

By WARD SIMS

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Battered by a presidential pledge of federal aid, flood-ravaged Fairbanks waited impatiently today for the Chena River to return within its banks so the urgent and massive recovery could get started.

The people—wanting only to get the community of 30,000 back on its feet before freezing weather sets in—were cheered Thursday when after weeks of rain, a brilliant summer sun shone on the city.

For the 15,000 residents forced to flee their homes and businesses, the return to buildings inundated by the swirling floodwaters will be only the beginning of a giant mop-up and reconstruction operation.

Only the roofs of thousands of homes showed above the dirty, debris-laden surface of the Chena when the flood hit its peak Tuesday.

State and local police officials today revised the earlier death count of seven down to five, saying two bodies apparently were counted twice by police and rescue workers.

President Johnson declared the region a major flood disaster area Thursday which allows the Small Business Administration to make long term, low-interest loans. The President also made $1 million available for recovery work.

The Chena, which hits flood stage at a little over 12 feet, continued to drop slowly today. The U.S. Weather Bureau said it should back to within a foot or so of its banks by noon Saturday—barring further rains.

The latest forecasts were for mostly cloudy skies today, with the possibility of a few light showers and afternoon temperatures in the upper 60's.

Mayor H.A. Boucher said the flood has damaged 95 per cent of the Fairbanks business community, most of it seriously, and not a single home was left untouched by the river.

Kentuckian Can Be Accommodated

By FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) —

Warrant Officer Russell Preston, a native of Kentucky, yearned for the sight of some of that wonderful grass from the Blue Grass State as he gazed on the expanse of bare ground at his Mekong delta base camp in Vietnam.

So Preston, attached to the 9th Infantry Division, wrote a plea to Kentucky's governor, Edward T. Breathitt:

"I would like to have some grass seed. Not the ordinary, run-of-the-mill grass seed common to the other 49 states, but the grass seed of the exceptional state—that is to say, Suh, Kentucky Bluegrass seed."

Breathitt, described as touched by the letter, turned the matter over to his special assistant for agriculture, Hayden Timmons. Timmons figures he can accommodate the Kentuckian far from home.

Fgn. Leaders Honored by President

By WALTER R. MEARS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two dinner toasts President Johnson offered in honor of foreign leaders were certified by the State Department as pronouncements ranking among the nation's defense commitments and assurances.

The toasts are included in an intricate, interwoven array of treaties, communiques, comments and memoranda listed by the department as documents bearing on the action the United States would take if another country were the victim of aggression.

The compilation of overseas ties, 71 pages long, was submitted Thursday to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Among the items on the State Department list are a news conference reply by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in Korea on Feb. 23, 1966, and the seventh annual message of President James Monroe, on Dec. 2, 1823. That message pronounced the Monroe Doctrine. Humphrey said the entire power of the United States is committed to the security and defense of Korea.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., requested the account as he pressed for approval of his resolution to declare the White House cannot make U.S. commitments abroad without action by Congress.

Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., said the administration apparently holds that President Johnson can use U.S. armed forces any place, any time he discerns a threat, without consulting Congress.

"The administration is awfully high-handed about this," Aiken said in an interview. "What they mean, apparently, is that the Congress is outmoded and only the Executive Branch has progressed with the times."

The State Department report was an updated version of a defense pact listing filed a year ago with the Senate military preparedness subcommittee.

It covers collective defense treaties linking the United States with 42 nations, along with notes and memoranda on their terms.

But 40 pages of the State Department report comprise a list of official declarations, and the Johnson toasts are under that heading. So is the Monroe Doctrine.

The department quotes the toast Johnson offered King Bhumibol Aduldet of Thailand, in Bangkok, on Oct. 28, 1966:

"Let me assure you in this regard that Thailand can count on the United States to meet its obligations under the SEATO Treaty. The commitment of the United States under the SEATO Treaty is not of a particular political party or administration in my country, but is a commitment of the American people."

"I repeat to you: America keeps its commitments."

The SEATO—Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—pact was one of two items cited by Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach before the Foreign Relations Committee in arguing that Congress has passed on and

Facts, Figures in Social Security Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Key provisions of the House-passed Social Security bill, all subject to change in the Senate:

Benefits—General increase, 12 1/2 per cent; minimum regular benefit up from $44 to $50 a month, would become effective on payments for second month after month in which bill is enacted; 24.2 million persons affected; additional benefits total $2.9 billion in 1968.

Taxes—In 1968, maximum increase of $44, produced by increasing wage base from $6,600 to $7,600; with later increases, rates reach 5.9 per cent on employer and employee in 1987 instead of 5.65 per cent provided in present law.

Earnings—At present, Social Security recipient may earn $1,500 a year without having benefits reduced; on earnings between $1,500 and $2,700 he loses $1 for each $2 earned. But in any one month, he may earn up to $125 without loss, regardless of yearly earnings. Bill would revise these figures to $1,680 instead of $1,500; $2,880 instead of $2,700, and $140 instead of $125.

Widows—For the first time, disabled widows—and dependent widows—as young as 50 would get benefits from a deceased worker's account.

Disability—A new, tough definition of disability for retirement purposes would be spelled out. But retirement of some younger people would be facilitated by a new rule on the amount of previous coverage required.

Servicemen—They could accumulate more Social Security credit through a provision computing their pay at $100 a month more than their actual military base pay.

Medicare—A study of extending medicare to those retired for disability would be conducted. Hospitalization days would be extended from 90 to 120, but with patients paying part of extra cost. Patients could collect on itemized bills from doctors without first paying the bills, in cases where doctors refuse to deal directly with Medicare.

Dependent children programs — States required to develop counseling, training, and community work programs for adult and work-age non-school members of assisted families. Unemployed fathers would be required to get jobs or enroll in work training programs. Part of family earnings would be exempt from reduction of welfare payments to encourage self-sufficiency. States would have to offer day care, family planning services on a voluntary basis and develop programs designed to reduce illegitimate births, establish paternity and obtain support. Extra federal financial support for required state programs would be provided. The proportion of children in child programs to the total child population of the state could not in future exceed the proportion of January 1967.

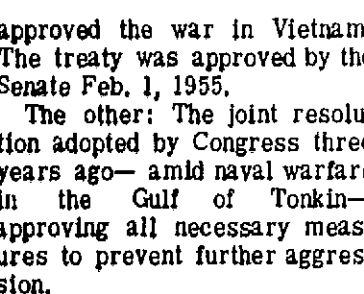

Medicaid — Federally-aided state health programs for low-income persons would have to conform to new income standards for eligibility. The family income could not be higher than either 133 1/3 per cent of highest amount ordinarily paid to family of same size under aid to dependent children, or 133 1/3 per cent of state per capita income for comparable family.

Limitations effective Jan. 1, 1968, except that states with existing programs could use interim proportions of 150 per cent until Jan. 1, 1969, and 140 per cent until Jan. 1, 1970.

approved the war in Vietnam. The treaty was approved by the Senate Feb. 1, 1955.

The other: The joint resolution adopted by Congress three years ago—amid naval warfare in the Gulf of Tonkin—approving all necessary measures to prevent further aggression.

be elected and must answer to the people," he said.

State Police Director Lynn A. Davis said the raids were carried out between 3:30 a.m. and 9 a.m. Thursday after he had received a tip two days prior that casino-type gambling had reappeared here.

Davis also said he had information that Hot Springs authorities were aware of the situation and had ample opportunity several weeks ago to stop the gambling.

He said the 21 plainclothes and uniformed troopers who participated in the raid arrived here about 10 p.m. Wednesday. Some watched gambling activity at the Bridge Street Club, the Citizens Club, the White Front Club and the Ohio Club, he said, and about midnight, officers were stationed at entrances to the clubs to prevent equipment from being removed while warrants were being obtained from Municipal Judge Earl Mazander.

No customers were in the clubs during the raids, and no arrests were made because it was difficult to determine who actually owned the clubs, Davis said. He added, however, that he was not saying no arrests would be made.

Davis said equipment seized during the raids included slot machines, crap tables, blackjack tables, dice, cards and chips.

A fifth club, the Casablanca Club, also was raided, but no equipment was found there.

None of the raided clubs was padlocked, Davis said, and only one was forcibly entered. He said no one showed up to open the door at the Bridge Club, and that he had shattered a large glass panel in the doorway with a lug wrench in hopes of reaching through to unlock the door from the inside.

11 Convicts Get Terms Reduced

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Eleven convicts, including three first degree murderers serving life sentences, had their terms reduced Thursday by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

The commutations, requested by the state Pardons and Parole Board, qualify the men for parole consideration.

The life sentences of Jonah Johnson, 59, of Helena, and Joseph Jones, 35, of Blytheville, were reduced to 50 years, and the life sentence of Mack Wardell, 74, of Crawfordville, was reduced to 60 years.

Johnson was convicted Nov. 3, 1947 in Phillips County for slaying Milton Jeffries. Jones, convicted in the slaying of Tommy Williams at age 15, was sentenced Oct. 29, 1947 in Mississippi County. Wardell was convicted Sept. 21, 1948 in Crittenden County for the fatal shooting of his wife.

Others who received gubernatorial clemencies were: Roy Coney and Tommy Smith, both sentenced in Saline County March 20, 1967 to two years in prison for grand larceny, with an additional year's sentence from White County. The governor commuted the Saline County sentence to time served with the White County sentence to be completed.

John Ed Grayer, sentenced Aug. 23, 1958 in Crittenden County to 21 years for grand larceny, with the term beginning Dec. 20, 1963. His sentence was reduced to 10 years.

Eddie Williams Jr., sentenced Aug. 27, 1956 in Desha County to two years for forgery, with the term to begin April 30, 1966, and an additional conviction in another case, Rockefeller pardoned Williams on the second conviction.

Eugene Swaggar, sentenced April 1, 1957 in Jefferson County to 21 years for assault with intent to kill, with an additional one year's sentence added on Rockefeller pardoned Swaggar from serving the extra year.

Ralph E. Douglas, sentenced April 9, 1965 in Miller County to four years for burglary and grand larceny, with an additional three year's sentence added on. He was pardoned from serving the additional three years.

Stephen Sheppard, sentenced April 21, 1958 in Union County to 21 years for burglary on six counts, with an additional nine-year sentence from six other cases. He was pardoned from serving the extra nine years.

Robert Lee Burks, sentenced Dec. 6, 1957 in Lincoln County to 15 years for assault with intent to kill, with the sentence to begin June 13, 1967, and an additional three-year sentence in Desha County. The governor pardoned him from serving the three-year term and reduced the 15-year sentence to one year.

Guns Fired at Homes in Louisiana

By JACK OWENS

WALKER, La. (AP)—Shotgun blasts were fired before dawn today at the homes of a Negro family and a white sheriff's deputy only hours before the resumption of a Negro march through the Ku Klux Klan bastion of Livingston Parish.

Later, a crowd of whites, displaying Confederate flags, began gathering on the outskirts of Denham Springs, a town six miles west of Walker.

The Negro marchers, on their way from Bogalusa to Baton Rouge, resume their trek today at Walker, walking toward Denham Springs.

The state mobilized 650 National Guardsmen and 175 state police troopers to guard the marchers. Two battalion of Guardsmen were activated Thursday night by Gov. John J. McKeithen.

"There is no other choice," said McKeithen.

By 8 a.m., three hours before the resumption of the civil rights march at Walker, nearly 150 whites were milling on the sides of the highway at Denham Springs.

"We know what to expect this time," said one white man. State police turned back two fistfighting charges by whites on the Negro band on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Many of the whites wore hard hats—the plastic or metal headgear used on construction jobs—apparently for protection against billy clubs and rifle butts.

The governor planned a statewide television appearance tonight to appeal for racial peace. The Livingston Parish sheriff's office said a shotgun blast was fired at the home of Allen Stewart, a Negro who lives in an all-white area of Denham Springs. Stewart said his front door was pelted by shot about midnight while he and his family slept.

A load of buckshot blasted through the window of a bedroom where Deputy Sheriff Donald Cowart, his wife and baby were sleeping. A sheriff's office spokesman said the shot pellets came within one foot of the baby's crib.

A third shotgun blast shattered the windows of a newly built hardware store at Watson, a tiny hamlet just north of Denham Springs.

Before McKeithen ordered out the Guardsmen, the march leader, A. Z. Young, charged that state police had orders not to escort the Negroes — whose number usually varies from 15 to 25 — out of Livingston Parish.

Cockrill Says WR Knew Very Little

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller proposed no legislative program of real importance during the 1967 General Assembly and probably had "less knowledge of what happen in the first 60 days (of his administration) than the average student of government," the 1967 speaker of the House said Thursday.

Sterling R. Cockrill Jr. of Little Rock, frequently mentioned as a possible candidate for the 1968 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, told a civic club here that when Rockefeller took office last January, he had only a "slight idea of what the job of being governor of Arkansas requires."

"When (senior members of the legislature) realized that Rockefeller would be the new governor, it was late in the year — November," Cockrill said, "and even though some of us discussed the advisability of a Democratic program, we couldn't agree what it should include."

Cockrill also said that although there had been some progressive thinking in the legislature, the legislators had contributed to their own bad image.

"The things that we do to make ourselves look bad seem to catch emphasis from the press and are longer remembered by the readers," he said.

As an example, he cited the recent Legislative Council tour of the two state prisons. The thing that caught the attention of the general public was a front-page picture of a few of the council members clomping in the electric chair, he said.

Cockrill said the legislators needed to concentrate more on good manners and good taste.

There are more than 800 coin-operated laundry and dry-cleaning stores in the United States.

REHEARSAL DINNER FOR TAYLOR-BROWN WEDDING

The Heritage House was the scene of the rehearsal dinner for the Taylor-Brown wedding on Thursday evening August 17. Mr. and Mrs. George F. Brown, parents of the groom elect, were host and hostess to the affair. Soft background music played while a delicious five course dinner was served to thirty five guests.

The tables were in a T arrangement, with a lovely silver centerpiece of daisies enhancing the head table; also, complimenting this arrangement were single tall white tapers with leather leaf fern around the base of each. There were also lighted tapers and leather leaf on the other tables.

The junior members of the wedding party were entertained in the smaller dining room of the Heritage House. A lovely arrangement of daisies also graced their table.

The bride and groom elect chose this time to present gifts to the attendants.

HERITAGE BRIDGE CLUB MEETS

The Heritage Bridge Club had three tables at a luncheon on Tuesday. Mrs. Emma Hatley was hostess and there were 3 guests: Mrs. F.R. Moses, Mrs. Bill Mudgett, and Mrs. S.L. Murphy.

Mrs. Inez Barlow was high, Mrs. S.L. Murphy was second high, Mrs. Charles Harrell won the consolation, and Mrs. C.C. Lewis took the game prize.

Coming, Going

Mrs. Richard Woodson, of Houston, arrived Wednesday of last week for a visit with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Sam Strong, Jr. On Sunday she accompanied Dr. and Mrs. Strong and Sammy to Dallas, where they saw The Music Hall Production of "Camelot." Mrs. Woodson returned to Houston by plane. The Strong family remained in Dallas Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Attebery and son David, of Panama, Calif., arrived Wednesday for a visit in her parents home, Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Booth on the Ross-ton highway. They were accompanied by his brother, Donald. Mr. and Mrs. Booth were further surprised by a visit by their son, C.C. from Covina, Calif. and his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Booth, Kathy and Larry of Wichita, Kansas.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It was Tuesday, August 15. It was hot in Los Angeles. We were watching the day's work at "Dragnet." The boss was Jack Webb. There was no doubt about that. The set was a teen-aged boy's bedroom. Webb in his familiar role of Sgt. Joe Friday, and Harry Morgan, playing his partner, were running through a scene.

Webb, in shirt sleeves, walked through his part in a preoccupied way and then stepped out of character to become the director. He moved Morgan a step closer to the camera, rearranged a blanket on the bed that concealed a rifle and then, still not satisfied, worked out with Morgan a little extra emphasis around their discovery that a "souvenir" hand grenade was missing with the boy.

Then, shrugging into a jacket, Webb followed Morgan out of the camera's eye. He called "Action," and the two men went through their paces. It was very professional, fast and apparently easy. Webb paused briefly and then ordered "Cut and save it," removed his jacket and returned to his director's role to prepare the next scene.

The 47-year-old star, who for almost two decades of radio and television as crew cut, sober-faced Friday has created the image of a good, hard-working police officer, is a member of a very small Hollywood group: the quadruple hyphenates. A hyphenate, in current movie-TV jargon, is a man with more than one job in a show. But where most hyphenates can merely put writer-director or producer-director after their names, Webb is "Dragnet's" star-producer-creator-director — and he has a hand in turning out the final scripts and casting his shows as well.

"Dragnet" had been retired to profitable syndication reruns in 1960, but bounced back on the NBC screens as a midyear replacement last season. Unchanged in format and viewpoint ("We're on the side of the law and order and our policemen are, for the most part, good guys"), the show jumped right back to a comfortable high spot in the Nielsen list.

The series is unusual because it has an identifiable style of its own—laconic dialogue building to the snapper. A typical bit was in the scene Webb and Morgan were playing. Morgan finds a hand grenade in a small box, and passes it on to Webb, who cautiously removes the primer as the boy stepfather explains that the boy told him they were "duds."

"I don't know about the other one," said Webb, "but he lied to you about this one."

"Yes?" said the stepfather, setting things up.

"It's no dud," said Friday sternly.

Fade out.

Webb often inserts short, pro-police opinions into the series—deploring uncontrolled gun buying or appealing for citizen's cooperation.

"We have no access to the Los Angeles police files," Webb explained, "but we do have an arrangement so that when there is a case we can use, the investigating officer writes it up in three pages—without names—and our writers can fill it out."

ATTORNEY F. LEE BAILEY, left, had plenty to be happy about as he faced the microphone after winning freedom for one of his most celebrated clients, Dr. Sam Sheppard, right, shown here with Mrs. Sheppard. The criminal law whiz will face the microphone, and cameras as well, on a regular basis from now on as the host of the television program, Good Company.

Justice Black Has Been Called Many Things

WASHINGTON (AP) — Not all his fellow senators liked the idea of seeing Hugo Black on the Supreme Court. And 30 years ago today, when the Senate approved his appointment, the vote was 63 to 16. It was a symbolic split.

There has been divided opinion about him since, with some switcharounds. He has done some switching himself since President Franklin D. Roosevelt named him to the court.

In his public years he has been called a lot of things: racist, bigot, absolutist, activist, liberal, radical. Perhaps his greatest contribution has been concern for individual freedom and being a goad to the other eight justices.

Black did some switching before ever joining the court. He joined the Ku Klux Klan for two years at the start of his political career—perhaps he thought it was a good way to get votes—but quit just before he ran successfully for the Senate in 1926. This came back to harm him.

He was different things at different times in the Senate. One writer, Daniel Berman, points out Black fought against an anti lynching bill but denounced violence against Negroes.

He alienated the Klan by backing a Catholic, Al Smith for president in 1928. He became a shining liberal and ultra-New Dealer, helped author the wage-hour law, backed Roosevelt on his court-packing plan.

Black's competency was questioned as soon as Roosevelt picked him for the court. But the biggest storm of his life broke with the news he had been a Klansman. Liberals screamed in pain, although he later became a liberal darling, and they called Oct. 4, 1937, the day he took his seat on the court, "Black Monday."

In his years on the bench he has been an individualist. He dissented 16 times from the majority opinions in his first year as a justice.

His concern for the individual showed up early, too. Over his protest the court in 1942 decided a state doesn't have to provide a lawyer for a man on trial who is too poor to hire one. By 1963 the court had come around to Black's thinking and reversed itself.

He also showed the long view in 1941 when he dissented from the majority opinion upholding an injunction against peaceful picketing. By the mid-1960s the court was throwing out one conviction after another of Negroes freedom of speech) gives people

But there are contradictions in Black which he seems aware of. Back in 1942, in a case involving the Bill of Rights and its guaranteed freedom of speech, Black went along with the majority in holding that freedom of speech is not absolute.

The court said some kinds of speech, such as that which incites injury or tends to incite to breaching the peace, are not absolute and have to be weighed against the public interest.

Black agreed to such limits on freedom for in 1944 he wrote the majority opinion backing the government's right to yank thousands of Japanese-Americans out of their West Coast homes and put them in "relocation" centers at a time a Japanese invasion was feared.

Later Black became a startling exponent of the idea that such freedoms as those of speech are "absolute" and can't be abridged by Congress.

At the same time he said: "Nobody has ever said that the First Amendment protecting

The unlucky expert caught us by the arms. As usual his eyes were filled with tears and his voice cracked time and again as he told his sad story.

He was playing in a mixed pair game with a partner who could be depended on to avoid playing no-trump contracts as much as possible.

Therefore she opened one spade and raised me to three no-trump after I had pulled myself together and responded to her spade opening.

"What's so sad about that?" we asked. "You probably made a lot of tricks."

"I went down one trick," he moaned. "And there was no way for me to make my contract."

We looked over the hand carefully. Finally we saw that if West happens to open the ten of clubs there is no play for the contract. We asked if that had happened and he replied:

"It certainly did. The Professor was sitting West and he must have led it in an effort to impress his favorite pupil, who was sitting East. I did the best I could by playing dummy's jack of clubs. The pupil thought awhile and might well have tried to preserve her queen of clubs for the dim and distant future jailed for picketing and sit-ins, a right to go anywhere...or say anything they want to say."

But he also said "without exception" nothing should be done to people for what they say.

Then this year he wrote the majority opinion upholding the conviction of 32 Negroes for picketing outside a jail.

Said Black: "The U.S. Constitution does not forbid a state to control the use of its own property for its own lawful nondiscriminatory purpose."

But Black makes his own argument about the "absolute" freedom of speech fallacious if he says it's absolutely free but only under certain conditions. In trying to give a simple explanation of his view on freedom he has made it simplistic.

Singing Group Buys McDonald Home

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bearded John Phillips and his wife, Michelle Gilliam—of The Mamas and the Papas singing group—have purchased the baronial Bel-air home of Jeanette MacDonald.

Currently they're having the place sand-blasted.

"It was all pink, and we didn't like it," Phillips said.

No purchase price was announced.

MARRIED MAN COP-OUT

Dear Helen:

Every so often you read about a man who "suffered amnesia" and started a whole new life in a different part of the country, after disappearing from his home town, wife and family.

You'd be surprised how many people are living their second life, without benefit of divorce. I'll bet among your friends is at least one married couple — who isn't, and nobody knows.

How do I know? Because I'm in that group. My wife wouldn't give me a divorce, it would have cost everything I had to win a contested suit. So I walked out. Why not? We hated each other. There were no children.

My present "wife" knows the situation. We don't like it, but we're living respectably. We're far more married than I was before, and we'll stay that way. We're spending as we go, not accumulating property, wealth or children, so there will be no complications when I die.

If divorce laws were changed so that a divorce wouldn't cost anywhere from $500 to $5,000 or more, I wouldn't be in this fix. Even an uncontested divorce is more expensive than the average working man can afford.

I'd like to hear what other "deserters" think, and what can they do about it? —UNMARRIED HUSBAND

Dear Helen:

You're not alone, that's for sure! Every week my mail brings questions from people who would like to "live respectably" but can't afford the divorce that will make it possible.

Comments, anyone? —H.

What do you do when there's a man-chasing woman in your group? We're five couples who go around together. My husband considers this one man his best friend, and can't see that his wife wants to be more than friendly. Or maybe he does, because when they dance together, everybody else sees it. She's after him, Helen. I talked to her husband about it and he told me he'd had trouble with her before, but HE thinks the solution is for me and him to get together. He says "everybody's doing it" these days. That sounds like mate-swapping to me, and it makes me feel crawly. I can't mention this to my husband without causing trouble, and if I refuse to go with the group, he'll get mad. He's already told me he thinks the other woman are "mean" to this predatory gal.

My husband is an honorable man, and we love each other. He wouldn't "plan" to be unfaithful, but I know these things happen when a determined woman makes up her mind — and her husband winks his eye. What to do? —THREATENED

I'd say the woman is no more predatory than her husband, and you two are headed for trouble if you continue going around with them. Tell your husband about the "proposition," and ask him what he thinks of mate-swapping. This may bomb a friendship, but it's better than shooting down a good marriage. —H.

Dear Helen:

In a recent column you implied the word "groovy" was as juvenile as the high school phrase, "In Crowd," and asked what it really means.

As with all overused words, "groovy" has degenerated, but it originally meant "in the groove." Two people who feel similarly about something are "in the groove." This feeling is beautiful, thus the word has come to denote happiness or serenity (some call it soul).

Used well, "groovy" attaches special meaning to a special circumstance. To me, for example, nature, music and people are groovy. Abstracts: love, brotherhood, freedom, beauty, are all groovy. The usage is highly variable.

Concerning the word's maturity, I will admit it does go well with the young generation. "Groovy" expresses any newly found joy in life, and as we are constantly discovering, it is best that we express happiness in our own terms. But this fact hardly bars adults from using the word. Rather, it invites them to pay close attention to our lives in hope that their own "groovy" discoveries will keep them young. —ALIX

Dear Alix: Thank you for a groovy letter—or should I say "real keen!" That was our generation's word for it. —H.

Mathews Is Traded to Detroit

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Mathews was grinning as he sat in the Houston dressing room.

"I've never seen the Detroit ball park," he said, and the grin stretched. "But I hear it's a good hitters' ball park."

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith was grinning even more. He'd just moved into third place in the miserly American League pennant race and found, in Mathews, the ideal replacement for injured third baseman Don Wert.

The trade of Mathews, one of the all-time great home run hitters, from the Astros to Detroit, was engineered late Thursday night shortly after the Tigers had arrived home from a 7-4, 10-inning victory at Boston that put them back in third place, three games back of leading Minnesota.

"We're going to find out in a hurry whether we'll have a shot at them," Smith said. "We have doubleheaders with them Tuesday and Wednesday and a single game Thursday."

Before that, the Tigers have a weekend series with Cleveland, which outlasted Washington 8-3 in 16 innings.

In the National League, Philadelphia topped Chicago 5-2 in 12 innings. Houston shut out Los Angeles 4-0 and the New York Mets and Pittsburgh split a doubleheader, the Mets winning 6-5 in the opener and the Pirates taking the nightcap by the same score in 14 innings. San Francisco, Atlanta, St. Louis and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Mathews, 36, who has 503 career home runs, will be at third for the Tigers tonight for the series opener with Cleveland, replacing Wert who pulled a groin muscle Sunday and will be out for two or three weeks.

He had played first base most of the season at Houston, but has no chance of moving Norm Cash out of that position at Detroit and will play third.

Cash was key to Detroit's victory over Boston, driving in the winning run with a two-out triple in the 10th. Two walks and two errors led in the other extra-inning runs. Willie Horton hit two homers and Al Kaline one before the Red Sox tied it with a three-run rally in the eighth.

Gene Brabender pitched a four-hitter, including Roy White's homer, and got key hitting support from Paul Blair in leading the Orioles over the Yankees. Blair broke up a scoreless duel in the seventh with a run scoring double and ignited a three-run ninth inning with a triple.

Vic Davalillo's bases-loaded triple was the highlight of a five-run, 16th inning rally that carried the Indians past Washington. Chuck Hinton opened the big inning with a single and was forced across by three straight walks. Davalillo delivered three more with his triple, then scored on Tony Horton's double.

Frank Howard hit his 30th homer of the season for the Senators.

Player Leads First Round at Hartford

By TOM HARRIGAN

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "I can't believe I shot a 65," said Gary Player of South Africa after becoming the first round leader at six-under-par in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

"I've been cutting trees, riding horses, driving a tractor on my farm for four weeks with only one practice round," Player said.

"Fantastic" was the way he described how his putter worked over the greens of Wethersfield Country Club as it gave him a one stroke lead over Terry Dill of Austin, Tex.

Player sank birdie putts from 35, 30, 20 and 18 feet during his round, and three others in the 8-12 foot range Thursday. Dill had similar putting luck in his 66, getting six birdies on putts ranging from 15 to 35 feet.

Dill ignored a request to tell more about his round at the press tent, saying: "Every time I have shot a good round this year and then gone to the press room, I've shot a 76 or 77 the next day."

Among those off to a good start Thursday was 22-year-old Bob Lunn of Sacramento, Calif., with four-under-par 67. Lunn's best finish in his rookie year has been 32nd in the Minnesota Classic earlier this month. Also at 67 was Lee Trevino, an El Paso, Tex., club professional who learned just how attractive the pro tour might be when he earned $6,000 for finishing fifth in the U.S. Open in June.

200 Entered in Meet at Texarkana

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP) — First-round play began today in the annual Four-States Invitational Golf Tournament, which has attracted some 200 entries from Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

Medalist honors in the qualifying round Thursday went to Baylor University Freshman Ric Rogers of Texarkana, Tex., who carded a 69 over the 6,254-yard, par-72 Texarkana Country Club course.

Defending champion Tom Raney of Little Rock, who won the match play tournament in 1964 as well as 1966, didn't have to qualify, but he fired a six-under-par 66 in a practice round.

The cut-off for the 16-man championship fight was 75. sore arm in camp, is backed up by Jerry Rhome and Craig Morton, two expensive second-year men. Landry wants to keep all three but the pressure from other clubs and the epidemic of injuries to quarterbacks, may force a trade. Landry needs a backup defensive lineman.

Bobby Hayes, the Olympic flash, is better than ever now that he has learned to run more patterns. Landry picked up Lance Rentzel from Minnesota to challenge Pete Gent, Meredith's sidekick, at flanker.

The veteran Buddy Dial is available but has been sidelined with back trouble. Norman and Frank Clarke are the tight ends. Rayfield Wright, a 6-foot-7 245-pound rookie, is green but impressive.

The blueprint calls for Tony Liscio to move from left guard to tackle, displacing Jim Boeke, if John Niland, top draftee in 1966, can make it at left guard. Leon Donahue will be the other guard with Dave Manders at center.

Ralph Neely, outstanding last year at right tackle despite a legal battle with Houston, has no more problems since the Cowboys gave up two draft choices and agreed to play the Oilers in an exhibition Sept. 2 to square the account.

Landry's only problems on defense are lack of depth up front. Willie Townes, George Pugh, Bob Lilly and Jethro Andriele the league in pass rushing and can make any quarterback turn grey overnight.

But when the Cowboys sent Jim Colvin to the Vikings they left themselves thin up front. Chuck Howley, Lee Roy Jordan and Dave Edwards are a capable crew of linebackers.

The experiment of moving Mel Renfro to offense has been forgotten. Renfro was a running back briefly last year but injuries—and Reeves' play—forced him to return to defense where he is perhaps the top free safety in the game.

Mike Gaechter plays the strong safety and Cornell Green and Warren Livingston are the corner men.

Homer by Allen Wins for Phils

By HAL BOCK

Associated Press Sports Writer
Leo Durocher kicked the sleeping dog, and it nearly bit off his leg.

Durocher, playing the percentages, ordered Philadelphia's Tony Gonzalez intentionally walked in the 12th inning of Thursday night's game to pitch to Rich Allen.

Now ordinarily that wouldn't qualify as a terribly safe move. But Chicago pitchers had retired Allen four times and, with Cookie Rojas on second carrying the winning run, a walk to Gonzalez did set up a potential double play that could get the Cubs out of the inning.

Instead, the strategy got them right out of the ball game. Allen hammered his 20th home run, over the right field wall, giving the Phillies a 5-2 victory.

In the only other National League game, Houston blanked Los Angeles 4-0 behind Dave Giusti and New York split a doubleheader with Pittsburgh, winning 6-5 and then losing by the same score in 14 innings.

In the American League, Detroit downed Boston 7-4 in 10 innings. Baltimore dropped New York 4-1 and Cleveland outlasted Washington 8-3 in 16 innings.

Rojas had opened the Phillies 12th with a single and was sacrificed to second. Then Durocher ordered the intentional walk to Gonzalez and Allen made him regret the move.

Ferguson Jenkins, looking for his 17th victory, took a 2-1 lead into the ninth but singles by Johnny Callison, Clay Dalrymple and Gary Sutherland, tied it for Philadelphia.

The Cubs nicked Philadelphia starter Rick Wise for single runs in the fourth and sixth, with singles by Clarence Jones and Adolpho Phillips driving them across. Tony Taylor's sixth inning single drove in the Phillies' first run in the sixth and ended a scoreless earned run string at 25 innings for Jenkins.

Giusti scattered eight hits against the Dodgers and Ron Davis' three-run double drove in all the runs he needed.

The Astros loaded the bases in the fifth on singles by Julio Gotay and Doug Rader and a walk to Rusty Staub. Then Davis' long double scored all three runs. A wild pitch and Bob Aspromonte's single drove in Davis.

It was the first shutout this season for Giusti, who won his ninth game. After the game, the Astros announced the trade of Ed Mathews to the Detroit Tigers.

Bud Harrelson's first major league homer, an inside-the-park shot that eluded Pittsburgh rightfielder Al Luplow, broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning of the first game and helped the Mets to their victory.

Harrelson popped the ball into short right, and Luplow missed a shoestring catch and then lost the ball in the Pirate bullpen as Harrelson circled the bases.

Juan Pizarro, loser in the opener, came out of the bullpen and picked up the second game victory when Manny Mota singled Roberto Clemente across with the winning run in the 14th inning. Clemente, who drove in the tying run in the ninth inning, started the winning rally with a single.

The Mets collected 34 hits in the doubleheader—seven of them by Cleon Jones. Pittsburgh had 29 hits in the two games.

Head Bobcat Coach Freddie Glaze was pleased with yesterday's workouts, as the Cats continue to prepare for their opener with Arkadelphia only two weeks away.

Mrs. King Is After Third Essex Title

MANCHESTER, Mass. (AP) — Top-seeded Billie Jean King, the Wimbledon queen from Long Beach, Calif., resumed her quest for a third Essex Country Club Women's Tennis Championship today in a quarter-final match with seventh-seeded Virginia Wade of England.

Mrs. King, the Essex winner in 1964 and '65, wasted little time in advancing through the third round Thursday as she whipped Esme Emmanuel of South Africa 6-1, 6-29.

Defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil, seeded No. 2, sailed through her third round match Wednesday. Her quarter-final opponent was Winnie Shaw, British Wightman Cup player from Scotland.

Other quarter-finals sent Rosemary Casals of San Francisco against eighth-seeded Kerry Melville of Australia, and Mrs. Joyce Williams of England against Karen Krantzcke of Australia in a duel of unseeded players.

The Nos. 3 and 4 seeds advanced without trouble Thursday, Riesen taking Bob Siska of San Francisco 6-2, 6-2, and Bill Bowrey of Australia eliminating Ray Moore of South Africa 6-2, 1-6, 6-4.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — "This was just the beginning," gushed a pert blonde Air Force lieutenant Thursday after she won the one-meter springboard diving title at the annual Women's National AAU Swimming and diving championships.

Micki King, who nine months ago started a tour of duty with the ROTC detachment at the University of Michigan, was looking ahead to today's three-meter competition and a possible double triumph. She said she wouldn't be adverse to also winning the 10-meter platform event, and an eventual Olympic berth.

The three-meter competition was one of six finals scheduled for today, the second of the four-day annual Nationals. Also

AFL: ---San Diego Chargers

GENERAL COMMENT—The Chargers who used to owe people by sheer physical presence are no more. Sounds hard to believe for an AFL team that spawned all its own talent, but some of the original stars were out, without adequate replacement. They're scrounging.

OFFENSE

PASSING—Apparently coach Sid Gillman, incumbent John Hadl have settled their differences, but that doesn't make Hadl's arm any better than the limited-caliber gun it's always been. Rating—B—

RECEIVING—Significant change finds vet Don Norton gone, young Gary Garrison taking over at split end. No better receiver on other side than Lance Alworth, at peak of his prowess. Willie Frazier might show now why Chargers traded for him at tight end year ago. Otherwise Jacques MacKinnon can do job. Rating—A—

RUNNING—Long-time combo of Paul Lowe-Keith Lincoln was broken up Lowe still steps briskly as ever. Gene Foster should take over for Lincoln at fullback. Jim Allison, local product, has had moments of brightness as spot performer. Room for a rookie here, too. Rating—B—

LINE—Three real class performers in tackles Ron Mix and Ernie Wright, guard Walt Sweeney. Gary Kiner, ex-tackle, will develop as other guard; Sam Gruneisen's steady at center. It's really an experience, stable unit with plenty of place left. Rating—B+

KICKING—Placekicker Dick Van Raaphorst faces challenge from Texas rookie Dave Conway, who also punts. So does holdover Rick Redman.

DEFENSE

LINE—The pass rush was improved with acquisition of end Tom Day from Baltimore and switch of agile Steve DeLong to left flank. But unless Scott Appleton, an Oiler flop, shows something quick, the interior's in deep trouble—just like it was a year ago. Rookie Ron Billingsley might help. Rating—C+

LINEBACKERS—A healthy Chuck Allen to direct things from the middle means everything. Chargers collapsed after he was hurt in '66. Frank Buncom's a fine right corner man, and John Baker has the aggressiveness Gillman likes at other side. He was a headhunter as an Oiler. Redman adds depth. Rating—B—

SECONDARY—Speedy Duncan at right corner, Kenny Graham at strong safety are All-League types. Graham's a savage tackler. But Whitehead knows the ropes at free safety. Nat Whitmyer's the holdover at left corner. There are no experienced dependable behind any of them. Rating—B—

SUMMARY—Chargers' absence from talent market for a couple of years is beginning to show now. And there are still skeptics about Hadl as a pro quarterback. They'll have to struggle to stay above .500, same as last year.

May Break Fgn. Horse Domination

By TED MEIER

Associated Press Sports Writer
WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Perfect Freight, seldom the favorite, might break the domination of foreign horses and win the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot for the United States at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

Only Su Mac Lad, twice, and Speedy Scot have been able to win this global spectacular for Uncle Sam, and Roquepine of France is expected to make it three in a row for the foreigners in this ninth edition of the harness racing classic.

Perfect Freight once again isn't given much chance even though the Jimmy Dennis-reined colt beat Roquepine in the United Nations Trot at Yonkers Raceway in June and only last Saturday won the American Trotting Championship at Roosevelt.

"He always seems to be downgraded because he's been in against real tough opposition," said owner Arthur Brown of New York today.

Dennis will take Perfect Freight away from post position No. 4 as the co-second choice at 7-2 with Real Speed, the other U.S. entry owned by William and Betty Feld of Chicago Ridge, Ill. Roquepine, a 6-year-old mare who will be driven by owner Henri Levesque, is the even money choice out of the No. 1 post for the 1¼ mile test.

There were only the one event on Thursday's schedule and Miss King, who has been diving since she was 10 years old in Pontiac, Mich., won that with a score of 407.80. She upset Mrs. Joel Lenzi O'Connell, the defending one-meter champion of Santa Clara (Calif.) Swim Club.

Mrs. O'Connell totaled 382.85 in her unsuccessful bid for a third straight outdoor AAU title.

The first U.S. Soldiers' Home was established in Washington, D.C., in 1851.

Public Asked to Help Keep Facilities Clean at Millwood Reservoir

By OTIS K. HIGGINBOTHAM
Resident Engineer, Millwood
Dam

I hope that you read my first letter which was published a couple of weeks ago. In it I gave some general information about the Millwood Reservoir. This time I will cover some of the problems involved in policing the reservoir.

Do you realize that 100 million people in the United States will take to the water for swimming, boating, water skiing, and underwater diving this year? This is big business. We love the great outdoors and most of us are able to enjoy it. Not many years ago, recreation facilities on our streams and reservoirs were items that we liked but few existed. Today, thanks to our taxpayer dollars and the efforts of the state, federal and local governments, vast areas are being developed for recreation.

By 1970, there will be at least 16 major lakes with one and one-half hours drive from the Mil-wood area. Water oriented recreation will be almost unlimited.

Unfortunately with the development of these vast areas arises a need for regulations and policing facilities. Around the reservoirs, complaints are common about vandalism, theft and thoughtless actions injurious to property and to the general recreational environment. Keeping

Canadians Recall That Dark Moment

Editor's note: Twenty-five years ago Saturday an allied

HIGH-SPEED TRANSPORTS traveling on a cushion of air could speed considerably transoceanic shipping by cruising at speeds up to 92 m.p.h., greatly exceeding present ocean freighter speeds. Currently under development is a 100-ton ship of this design to provide information and study necessary for design of a 4,000-tonner. Lift and propulsion would be provided by 140,000 shaft-horsepower engines, and solid side walls would include flexible rubber bow trunks which allow the ship to pass over water obstacles without damaging the hull. The U.S. Navy and Maritime Administration Joint Surface Effect Ship Program Office has authorized Textron's Bell Aerosystems Company to design the 100-ton test ship.

Combat Pilots Practice

This, and This...

Evidence of growth is seen in this new building going up in Anchorage.

A familiar trademark of Alaska is the totem pole. Alaskan Indians are considered the best of the totemic carvers.

AN IMPISH GRIN is the familiar trademark of 22-year-old actress Geraldine Chaplin, as much as a straight face was typical of her famous father, Charlie Chaplin. The rising young star relaxes here on a London park bench during a stroll along the Thames.

BRIEFER AND BRIEFEST in beachwear are seen in this stroll along the shore at Coney Island. Modeling their respective preferences in high fashion are Dawn Marie Fasano, 2, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and her aunt, Ann Martel.

In Case Of This

Pilots of the Air Force F-4C Phantoms can participate in a sea survival school operated at Da Nang, South Vietnam, for practice in case of forced bailout over water. Training includes a 200-yard swim, top left, and a leap into the ocean, above, wearing a harness that drags the flier much as it might happen behind a wind-driven parachute. Payoff comes when the experience in staying afloat results in actual rescue, as shown at left.

Computerized Driving

Automatic Highways Ahead?

Some researchers are predicting the fully automated highway, in which the driver turns over control of his car to a computer, will be in use by the year 2000. They foresee a motorist driving to a superhighway where he steers into a specified lane and feeds his destination into an ultra-compact computer, which then does the driving. On approach to the desired spot, he takes over again. Scale models, such as the one at right, are being built in the auto industry and full-sized autos have already steered themselves over test stretches, as shown below. Ahead lie years of research in highway design and reliable automatic control systems.

Automatic highway concept illustrated below operates this way: At (1) a vehicle traveling in normal traffic is steered (2) into a transitional lane and driver signals system that he wants to enter automatic lane. At (3) car is automatically guided into first available spot in platoon of closely spaced vehicles in automated lane. To exit, driver signals (4) to move to transition lane (5) and normal lane (6).

SURE-FIRE LIGHTER, reliable as a kitchen match, was modeled by this pretty mam'selle at a recent gadgets show in Paris. And well it should be, since the invention incorporates the style and mechanical ease of a cigarette lighter with the reliability of ordinary matches, which pop up one at a time for quick use.

TRAFFIC SAFETY has taken to the road in Ontario, Canada, in a long trailer coach filled with exhibits to carry the message. The travelling Information Centre contains 110 linear feet of display area, designed to help the motoring public check on their knowledge of modern driving conditions. Hypothetical situations are set up, including freeway driving, traffic signs, and driving around school buses, giving drivers a chance to see what is happening in the modern world of traffic. Heating and air conditioning allow use of the trailer year-round.

Alaska Celebrates Success

Folly That Flowered

Even the two cents an acre offered by Seward, above, seemed too much for a "frozen wilderness" to some congressmen.

A rain of abuse fell on W. H. Seward when he decided to buy Alaska from Russia for $7,200,000 in 1867. The eloquent secretary of state was vindicated, however, as a wealth of natural resources began to reveal one of the biggest real estate bargains in history. Alaskans celebrate that bargain now, 100 years later, in a year-long observance. Included is the Alaska '67 Centennial in Fairbanks, combining the heritage of the past and the wealth of the present to tell the success story of the nation's biggest state.

Social Security Rate Rise Sure Sign of Inflation

Politicians shoot off their mouths about there being no danger in the steady rise in Government spending and the public debt and deny we are suffering from inflation—and then hand us a package of dollar figures that contradicts everything they told us.

The financial report was on this page yesterday — a Washington AP dispatch saying that increased Social Security benefits AND TAXES is certain this year. And—surprise—your crusty old editor agrees that this is just and inevitable.

Free-wheeling politicians having ruined the dollar, it is just and necessary that Social Security beneficiaries be given more dollars with which to meet the rise in the cost of living.

The people put hard tax dollars into Social Security for years, and now that they are retired they are being paid off in cheap benefit dollars—and it takes more of these money dollars to buy the necessities of life.

From time to time this writer has charged that the Government is maintaining its prodigal domestic spending program by stealing the people's long-time savings in the Social Security Fund. We had verification of this only a week ago when the No. 1 financial paper The Wall Street Journal gave a detailed explanation of how the Government floats its own bonds to get more spending money.

The Wall Street Journal said that while some of these bonds are distributed in the general money markets a great many of them are "placed with Social Security and other trust funds."

In plain English, the Government extracted the cash from Social Security and left in the till its I.O.U.'s. What is that but stealing? For you are a banker and "borrowed" from your trust funds to get money to meet the running expenses of the bank the Government would put you under the nearest jail and keep you there.

But the trouble with Government is that thieves and liars "sell" the people on all sorts of free-spending schemes unsupported by taxes—and by the time the people wake up and discover they have been cheated all the rascals are dead and gone.

The private citizen's only protection is to be ever suspicious and alert.

That's why I coined the line that appears over our newspaper name-plate every day:

The tragedy of Man: He starts off with a Country—and winds up with a Government!

Body of Girl Taken From River

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Volunteer rescue workers who had been searching for Christine Beagles since she stepped into deep water while wading in the Arkansas River Monday found the body of the 12-year-old Moffett, Okla., girl Thursday in about a foot and a half of water on the Van Buren side of the river near Wildcat Mountain.

Crawford County Coroner Mack McKenzie said the child had been on a swimming party with her eight brothers and sisters and their mother, Rosie Beagles, who had left the party to return a friend to her home.

Says Highways Need Bond Cash

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas will have to have bond issues to make any progress in building highways, because the state will never have enough general revenues to do the job, a former state representative told a civic club here Thursday.

Don Brown of El Dorado, a member of the Arkansas Highway 82 Association said Arkansas had good credit and that additional tourist traffic alone would pay for the bonds.

Poor highways are one reason why Arkansas' growth has been retarded, he said.

Brown advocated a central Arkansas turnpike connecting Kansas City, Mo., with New Orleans via Harrison, Little Rock, Pine Bluff and El Dorado.

Near Record Air Strikes by Bombers

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAIGON (AP)—The U. S. Command announced today a near record number of air strikes on North Vietnam, B52 raids just above the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, and bombing and naval shelling inside the zone.

The Communists derailed a train just outside Saigon and terrorist snipers attacked in the South Vietnamese capital.

Although ground fighting in the South remained scattered there were many sharp but limited skirmishes with at least 181 Communists killed in reported actions, the command said.

The intensified pace of the air war cost the United States its 643rd plane announced as lost over North Vietnam, an F105 Thunderchief shot down Thursday. The pilot was saved by a helicopter.

The coordinated B52 raids struck the demilitarized zone area early today, making it eight times within the past three days.

Up to 35,000 Communist troops are believed concentrated in the area, preparing for a possible attack on U. S. Marine outposts.

One raid went into the northern half of the DMZ and the other went into North Vietnam itself. The Air Force never discloses the number of the eight-engine B52s on any particular raid but the minimum number is usually three, planes, with each carrying up to 30 tons of bombs.

The raids followed up shelling Thursday by the destroyer Du Pont which raked targets throughout the six-mile wide zone. It was the second consecutive day of naval bombardment in the zone from which the North Vietnamese have staged repeated assaults on U. S. Marines just to the south.

The war was also carried to North Vietnam with 172 missions by American fighter-bombers.

Bad weather blanketed the Hanoi-Haiphong area but ranging south, the U. S. pilots found supply targets, including one convoy of 15 trucks caught in the open near Thanh Hoa, Skyhawk jets from the carrier Constellation raked the convoy with rockets and cannon fire, sending smoke billowing 2,000 feet.

Employees Think Right to Use Office Phone Is a Fringe Benefit

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — In thousands of offices across the country the telephones bear a simple printed warning:

"For company business only."

The admonition is about as effective as putting up signs on a public golf course reading:

"Keep off the grass."

For millions of employees, contrary to management regulations, now regard the right to use the office phone for conducting their personal monkey business as an unwritten fringe benefit. It's a lucky firm if one out of two of the calls that go through its switchboard has anything to do with company business.

Who are the culprits? What are the pressing personal problems that lead them to run up phone bills that give the boss an ulcer?

Well, here are a few characters probably familiar to you in your own office:

Deadbeat Dick—He owes everybody in town. He spends all morning on the phone stalling off people threatening to foreclose on his home or repossess his power lawnmower. The afternoons he spends making desperate calls to friends and acquaintances in an effort to float new loans.

Henpecked Henry—Having dropped off his wife's dress at the cleaner's on the way to work, the first thing Henry does on reaching the office is to phone his wife and tell her it

Senate Determined to Curb LBJ's Overseas Assistance Program

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House again are charting a collision course over foreign aid.

And this time the Senate insists it won't back down from its decisions to curb the Johnson administration's overseas assistance program.

The Senate passed 60 to 26 Thursday after four days of debate a foreign-aid authorization bill $837 million below the $3.4 billion sought by Johnson. It also was $337 million below the $3.1 billion recommended last week by the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The Senate-passed measure also carries a provision to abolish the President's power to add countries to the aid list without congressional approval. And it would prohibit aid to any country that has broken diplomatic relations with the United States.

The ban is aimed specifically at Arab-bloc countries that broke with the United States in the Middle East crisis. Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said after final passage of the measure he would let the aid legislation languish indefinitely rather than give in to the House.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee has approved an aid bill much along the lines—both in money and in presidential prerogatives—recommended by the administration. It calls for allotting $3.5 billion in fiscal 1968-69 to foreign aid, while the Senate decided against authorization.

El Dorado School Plan Approved

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Federal District Judge Oren Harris, who ordered the El Dorado School Board to re-submit its desegregation proposals June 5, gave his approval Thursday to a plan under which the board has promised to assign pupils and teachers to classrooms without regard to race.

The plan, which goes into effect immediately, will permit all students in all grades to choose the schools they wish to attend and also provides that all faculty members will be hired, fired and assigned without regard to race.

Negotiate, Fight Part of Cong Plan

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. officials made public today a translated copy of what they said was a top secret Viet Cong document dated March 1966 in which Communist leaders resolved "not to entertain any illusions concerning a negotiated settlement" of the Vietnam war.

"At a certain time," the document says, "We can apply the strategy of fighting and negotiating at the same time in order to support our armed struggle, and thus accelerate the disintegration of the puppet (South Vietnamese) army and regime, and create more conditions favorable for our people to secure a decisive victory."

"We are determined not to entertain any illusions concerning a negotiated settlement to the problem of Vietnam, and we must concentrate all our strength to destroy the enemy. Only when the American imperialists' aggressive will is dependence, peace, democracy and neutrality of the South are guaranteed can we negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam problem."

A spokesman for the U. S. Mission said the document is "one of the most significant" ever to come into the possession of the U. S. Command.

The document was reported to have been seized last April 21 in Khanh Hoa Province, about 200 miles northeast of Saigon, by units of the U. S. 101st Airborne Division.

Farmer Tied, House Fired, Family Dies

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — A wounded farmer was found tied to a clothesline post with a black hood draped over his head early today, as flames destroyed the farmhouse in which his wife and three children died, the Stearns County sheriff's office said.

Authorities were unable to account for a fourth child. David Hoskins, 32, was taken to a St. Cloud hospital and was reported in critical condition with bullet wounds in the chest and stomach, the sheriff's office said.

The farmer was unable to give officers a clear picture of the tragedy at his farm home about 60 miles north of Minneapolis.

Sheriff's deputies said the body of Mrs. Hoskins, Loretta, 29, and three children were found in the burning embers of the farm home.

Relatives identified the couple's children as Julie, 7; Darla, 5; Linda, 1½, and a baby, David Eli, 6 weeks.

The sheriff's office said a group of passing youths sounded the alarm after they noticed the burning house and barn on the Hoskins farm about 1 a.m. The youths told officers they found Hoskins wounded and lashed to a clothesline pole in the farmyard.

Deputies said the youths cut the farmer free and took him to a store two miles away, where an ambulance was called and authorities were notified.

The sheriff's office was questioning the youths. David Hoskins' father, Leo, who lives on a farm about 8 miles from his son's home, apparently saw the flames in the darkness, and was reported to have rushed to the burning house. The elder Hoskins was unable to enter the flaming house and suffered burns in his futile efforts to save the victims.

SS Increase Contains Program to Reduce Illegitimate Births

By EDMOND LeBRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed overwhelmingly a massive Social Security overhaul that would raise benefits, hike taxes and crack down on idle welfare recipients.

But it probably will be months before the extra money is flowing to some 24.2 million current beneficiaries because the Senate isn't ready to consider the legislation at once.

Moreover, a Senate conflict is brewing over those provisions of the House-passed measure intended to toughen federally aided state welfare programs.

"We're rough in this bill—make no mistake about that—but we don't mean to be inhuman," said Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., of the House Ways and Means Committee, during Thursday's debate on the measure.

Mills' reference was to provisions imposing income limitations on persons eligible for federally backed state Medicaid programs, requiring states to channel jobless welfare recipients into work or job training and limiting the proportion of children receiving welfare.

Under the measure, states could aid no more children than the proportion of children receiving aid in January 1967. The number could rise, but not their total proportion to the overall child population of the state.

He said the measure ultimately should result in pushing 300,000 adult recipients off the welfare rolls and into jobs.

The bill the House approved 415 to 3 Thursday provides a minimum 1½ per cent raise for Social Security beneficiaries.

It also calls for staged increases in the payroll tax that finances the program, with a first-step maximum $44 jump—for those earning $7,600 or more annually—to begin next year. That would come by expanding the taxable base from $6,600 to $7,600. Employers of such workers also would feel the added tax bite.

And it eventually would raise the current 4.4 per cent Social Security tax to 5.9 per cent in 1967. That would mean a maximum jump of $158 for the worker earning $7,600—provided there were no expansions of the taxable base or tax hike in the meantime.

The measure also would raise the amount of money a Social Security recipient could earn without reduction of benefits and lower to 50 the age at which disabled widows could draw benefits from a deceased worker's account.

The Senate Finance Committee has scheduled hearings beginning Tuesday on the bill. However, a long Labor Day recess will interrupt its proceedings and handlers of the measure said they have no hope of a Senate vote earlier than mid-October.

If the Senate materially changes the measure, the resulting conference with the House may be protracted and difficult.

10 Injured in Toledo Oil Blast
TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—An explosion ripped through the Standard Oil refinery in Oregon Township in east Toledo today and first reports said at least 10 persons were injured. There were no known deaths.

All we know now is that it was a terrible explosion and everything is burning," a dispatcher at the Oregon Police Department said.

The injured were rushed to neighborhood hospitals. Most of those hurt suffered burns, the police department said.

The explosion rocked the entire community and was heard as far away as downtown Toledo.

A fire department spokesman said initial reports from the scene said a cracking unit—a unit used to separate oil and gasoline—apparently exploded.

Three 60-ton beams forming part of an aircraft hangar under construction collapsed today at South Weymouth Naval Air Station. Police said two men were dead and five injured.

The collapse buried workmen beneath rubble, and Navy personnel and police began digging out trapped personnel.

Two 30-ton cranes were demolished in the accident. A man at the scene said four of the cranes were lifting the huge precast concrete beams into place atop girders.

Three of the beams were in place and the crew was working on the fourth when something slipped and it crashed, carrying the others down.

The beams have a 90-foot span. They landed on a concrete floor.

The accident occurred on the site of the station's old 800-foot blimp hangar torn down a year ago. The replacement hangar, about half as long as the old one, was to have been dedicated Sept. 30.

The station is located about 17 miles south of Boston. A Navy public relations officer said the collapsed building "several civilian workers and equipment beneath it."

The opinion went to Probation Officer Don M. Hearn of Jonesboro, who said an Army recruiter had asked for specific information regarding a juvenile offender.

Popularity Low, LBJ to Defend Acts

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson holds a news conference today amid a dip in his poll showings, congressional resistance to some key administration proposals and widespread debate over his Vietnam policy.

The 3 p.m. EDT nationally broadcast and televised session, is the first such announced-in-advance Johnson news conference since March 9. However, the President has met informally with newsmen a number of times in the interval.

Both the Harris and Gallup polls reported last weekend that public approval of Johnson's course had slipped to a new low of 39 per cent in the wake of big-city riots and his call for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge and dispatch of more troops to Vietnam.

The Vietnam issue figured in part Thursday in a Senate slash of the administration's foreign aid bill, a Senate committee hearing on U. S. overseas commitments and a House committee's coolness toward the proposed tax hike.

Defending against critics, administration sources meanwhile let it be known that:

—Special precautions have been taken against raising the risk of Red China's entry into the war through new U. S. bombings close to her border.

Defense officials said improved communications, navigation and radar gear have trimmed chances the fast-flying U. S. jets accidentally will slip into Red Chinese airspace while attacking North Vietnamese targets in the hitherto off-limits zone within 25 miles of the Chinese border.

American pilots also were reported under orders to fly their bombing runs parallel to the Communist Chinese boundary in the sensitive area. The idea is to prevent any chance border-crossing and, by not heading toward the border, to allay Red Chinese concern that an attack is coming on them.

—The Pentagon is considering recruiting a new Army division to remain in the United States.
